Preface

This Digo-English-Swahili dictionary has been compiled as part of the ongoing work of the Digo Language and Literacy Project. This project is part of Bible Translation and Literacy (East Africa), a Kenyan non-governmental organisation which exists to promote the use of the local languages in education, community development, and religious activities.<sup>1</sup> The dictionary is intended for use by speakers of Chidigo, the Digo language, and also for non-Digos who want to learn more about the Digo language. More information about the Digo language and people can be found in the appendices at the back of the dictionary.

This is a trilingual dictionary, that is, a dictionary in three languages: Digo (or Chidigo), English, and Swahili (or Kiswahili). Words and phrases in Digo are listed alphabetically in the dictionary and definitions of these words and phrases are given in English and Swahili. In many cases a single word or a brief phrase is sufficient to define the Digo word or phrase, but often a longer explanation is required, as, for example, when defining a word or phrase which describes a cultural phenomenon. There is no reverse list of English and/or Swahili words with definitions in Digo because the focus of the dictionary is the Digo language. Our aim is to provide a comprehensive description of Digo words and phrases, and any reverse list would inevitably omit many Digo words for which there is no obvious English or Swahili equivalent.

Like most languages, Digo has various dialects, which differ in both pronunciation and the words used. Although we have not attempted to standardise Digo in any way, the dictionary reflects the fact that the Digo Language and Literacy Project has been most active in the area between Waa and Tiwi at the coast (approximately fifteen kilometres south of Mombasa), and inland as far as Kwale and Golini (approximately twenty kilometres from the coast). Words and phrases have also been contributed by speakers from other parts of the Digo area, including Likoni township in the north and the village of Mpande near Tanga in Tanzania (at the south western tip of the Digo area). Words that are (as far as we know) unique to the southern dialects have been indicated in the dictionary by the addition of '(Tz)' (short for 'Tanzania') following the English and Swahili definitions. 'Tanzania' in this case does not exclude the possibility that the particular word or pronunciation might also be found in southern areas of Kenya, e.g. between Msambweni and Lunga-Lunga.

Acknowledgements

The dictionary is not only the work of those named on the cover. It began as a word list compiled by Maartien de Groot and Rodgers Maneno which was expanded by Andy Clark. In March 2003 a six-day workshop was held to elicit additional words and phrases using a list of topics (or semantic domains) compiled by Alison Nicolle and further developed by Ron Moe of SIL (BTL's sister organisation in Uganda and Tanzania). The following people participated in this workshop: Hamisi Bilo, Maliki H. Garashi, Mwanatumu R. Hindo, Hamisi Kulola, Shadrack Mwalonya, Mwanamwee S. Malimau, Rodgers Maneno, Amina H. Muta, Ali Mwaramwendo, Juma Mwayani, Ali Jumaa Rahisi, Ali Tenga, Alfani Riziki Tsumo, Mejumaa Ngáza, and Zuhura Zimbu. Susan Nyaga of BTL assisted. Following this workshop, Joseph Mwalonya entered the words and phrases into a database, assisted by Annah Ramtu and Rodgers Maneno. This work was continued by Alison Nicolle, Steve Nicolle and Juma Zimbu, who provided many of the Swahili definitions.

Andrew and Rachel Chard hosted Steve Nicolle during a visit to Mpande, Tanzania, Juma Omari Lumumbah, Project Officer at the Coastal Forest Conservation Unit, Ukunda (NMK) assisted with additional information on flora and fauna, and Øyvind Åslund provided information on Digo spirit terminology. Additional Digo medicinal terminology was obtained from Ties Boerma (1989) listed in the bibliography. The illustration on p. 190 is used by permission of Luise Gull.

Finally, we wish to thank Dennis Felkner of SIL in Nairobi for his patience and skill in typesetting the dictionary and suggesting numerous improvements.

We are grateful to all of the above for their assistance and attach no blame to them whatsoever for any mistakes or omissions.

Notes on using the dictionary

Digo is one of the Bantu family of languages, which are spoken throughout much of sub-Saharan Africa. Words in Bantu languages consist of a root which carries the basic meaning and is modified by prefixes (before the root) and suffixes (after the root). As a result, certain decisions have been made as to how to enter words in the dictionary.

- Singular and plural are indicated on most nouns through prefixes. Nouns in the dictionary are given using the singular form (unless only a plural form exists or the plural has a distinct meaning) and the plural form is indicated after the noun by the prefix in brackets: chirahu (vi); mtaa (mi). This means that the plural of chirahu is virahu and the plural of mtaa is mitaa. If there is no bracketed form following a noun this means that the noun has no plural; if a noun is followed by (-) this means that the singular and plural forms of the noun are identical. In cases where the plural form is irregular it is given in full.
- Verbs are usually cited without the infinitive prefix or any subject and tense/aspect prefixes. Passives and other verb forms which are made through the addition of suffixes after the root are only included if they change the meaning of the root in an unpredictable way or if the form of the resulting word is irregular.
- Adjectives which occur with a noun class prefix (see Appendix 2) are listed in the dictionary with an initial hyphen: -baya; -fupi. If an adjective does not take a noun class prefix, there is no hyphen.

Readers familiar with other dictionaries may notice the lack of abbreviations referring to parts of speech (n. for noun, adj. for adjective, etc.). This is not an oversight on our part. We have tried to show in the definitions whether each word is a noun, a conjunction, a (transitive or intransitive) verb, etc. For example, the definitions of verbs contain the infinitive forms ‘to’ in English and ‘ku-’ in Swahili.

Spelling and pronunciation

A detailed spelling guide can be found just before the Digo-English-Swahili dictionary; the current section has been written primarily for the benefit of people for whom Digo is not their mother tongue.

The pronunciation of most (combinations of) letters in Digo is very similar to the pronunciation of Swahili (e.g. ng is pronounced as in ngoma or finger, and ng' is pronounced as in ng'ombe or singer). However Digo has some sounds which are not found in Swahili:

- dz a d and a z are pronounced together; this sound often corresponds to j in Swahili.
- gbw a g and a b are pronounced together with the b being ‘sucked in’ (implosive).
- h the pronunciation of h varies. Sometimes it is pronounced as in Swahili or English, but sometimes it is pronounced very softly, almost like heavy breathing, (e.g. hipha). If you cannot find a word with a ‘soft h’ sound under h in the dictionary, try looking under the following vowel. The letter h between two vowels (e.g. chihī) is always pronounced nasally (as if there were a soft n just before it).
- kpw a k and a p are pronounced together; this sound often corresponds to kw in Swahili (e.g. kpwekpwe weed; kwekwe).
- m' this symbol is used to distinguish syllabic (long) m's before the letter b from non-syllabic (short) m's before the letter b; e.g. m'balazi (pigeon pea plant) versus mbalazi (pigeon pea).
- ph this is a voiced bilabial fricative (or occasionally approximant) pronounced by putting the lips close together and letting them vibrate; this sound often corresponds to p in Swahili (e.g. kpwapha armpit, kwapa).
- ts a t and a s are pronounced together.
- zh this is the voiced counterpart of sh and occurs in a very few words, probably of Giryama origin (e.g. chitindizho ‘cattle pen’).

As well as sounds that are different, some of the letter combinations used in Digo are different from Swahili (for example, Swahili zuia is zuwiya in Digo). Here are some suggestions of alternative letter combinations to look for when using the dictionary:

When looking for ia or ie	try	iya or iye
for oa or ua	try	owa or uwa
for ue , uo , or ui	try	uwe , uwo , or uwi
for nz	try	ndz
for mg or mk	try	mgbw or mkpw
for bw or gw	try	gbw
for kw or p	try	kpw
for v or m	try	ph

Mlongozo wa harufu

1. Alama za Chidigo

Alama hizi zilungazo zinahumirwa karibu sawa na za Chiswahili: a, b, ch, e, f, g, i, j, k, l, m, n, ng', ny, o, p, r, s, sh, t, u, v, w, y, z (Harufu dh na th zinahumirwa kpwa maneno govoywa kula kpwa luga za Chiswahili ama Chizungu). Harufu hizi tazihumirwa kpwa luga ya Chiswahili: dz, gbw, kpw, m', ph, ts, na zh (hino ya mwisho inahumirwa lakini si mara nyinji, nkuhenda inahusiana na Chigiryama, mfwano ni chitindizho).

Harufu h kahi-kahi ya vowel mbiri (mfwano chihi) nkukala inahadzwa kuhumira pula. Lakini kpwanjina inategemea mahumizi ga hiyo harufu. Wakati wanjina inahadzwa dza mahumizi ga Chiswahili (mfwano ni hakika) lakini wakati wanjina taisikirika sana dza neno (hipha). Sauti ihi wakati inamanisha umwenga wa atu: hu-. Maneno garigo na sauti hino wakati wanjina ganaandikpwa na /h/ na wakati wanjina ganaandikpwa bila ya alama yoyosi ambayo si kawaida, lakini ni muhimu kpwa kuandzisha alama nyiphya. Maneno ambago ganahumirwa kula kpwa luga ya Chiswahili/Chiarabu mara nyinji ganaandikpwa bila ya /h/ ili kutafautisha Chidigo na Chiswahili; hipha, hiye n.k. nkuandikpwa na /h/ ili gakale sawa sawa na kuusa tafauti ya neno iye. Kpwa maneno ganjina, chitabu cha mgombato chinalavya mlongozo.

2. Harufu zilunganazo

Sauti hizi mbiri /dz/ na /z/ nkuandikpwa hivi /ndz/ ambapho sauti hino chandzoche ni -ziho ambayo nkukala ndziho lakini siyo nziho. Hino inahumirwa kpwa sababu a) inaonyesa neno renye rinavyohadzwa, na b) aandishi anjina kandaweza kumanya vira ambavyo maneno na kugatenga na chandzo cha higo maneno.

Kpwa mahumizi ga kawaida, ku kabla ya vowel nkukala inahadzwa kpw, lakini wakati wa kuandika inaandikpwa kama ku ili kuonyesa ambavyo ganaungana na neno lilungalo: nakuambira; achiandza kuandika, na maneno ganjina.

Wakati mutu anatamka m, ufupisho wa mu inaweza kusababisha k + vowel kusomeka kama kpw + vowel na g + vowel iweze kuhadzika kama gbw + vowel. Uhakika ula kpwa maneno dza higa: mkwono (unji ni mikono), mgbwanga (unjiwe ni aganga). Hata hivyo si Adigo osi ahumirao matamshi ga kpw na gbw ichilungizirwa ni m, kpwa hivyo mgbwanga na mganga gosi ni maneno ambago ganakubalika kpwa kuandika. Mifano ihi inaphahikana mwenye chitabu cha mgombato.

Kuna maneno ganjina ambago ganaandikika tu mara mwenga, neno kama mkare, lakini neno kama mkware wakati wanjina rina mana ya mutu amendzaye achetu, nacho chitabu cha mgombato chinaonyesa vinono vira maneno dza higa garivyopangbwa vinono.

3. Sauti zinazovutwa

Aina tahu za sauti zinazovutwa nkuandikpwa kpwa kuhumira alama à na ó:

1. Kutafautisha neno vivi sambi naphiya ambapho sauti taivutwa na neno náphiya kuonyesa ni hendo rohendeka dzana ama siku zotsupa, ambayo sautiye inavutwa kuonyesa hendo renye rahendeka chitambo.
2. Kutafautisha neno lola ya matso na lóla ya kuphaha mchetu.
3. Kutafautisha neno mwanaao (mwana wa kumvyala) na mwanáo (nduguye) lakini ichikala tayeeleweka neno mwenehu nkuhumika badala ya neno mwanáo.

4. Maneno gaandikpwago kpwa ure na ufupi

Kuna maneno ganjina ambago nkufupishwa kpwa mfwano nina ambaro si mara nyinji kurisikira rinahumirwa na hata kuandikpwa lakini nkufupishwa rikala na. Neno riandzaro na nda ichikala mutu analonda kuamba ninda mara nyinji nkufupishwa na rikaandikpwa kama n'nda. Kpwa mfwano n'ndakpwedza. Dza vivyo sentensi kama Kuamwisa ni kunono nkufupishwa hivi: Kuamwisa n'kunono.

Piya mutu achihadzwa kama ‘object’ ya chihendo, andika mu ichikala chihendo chinaandza na vowel, mfwano ni muone, ela chihendo chichiandza na harufu ambayo siyo vowel, andika m tu, kpwa mfwano: mole.

Ichikala dzina rikaundwa kula kpwa chihendo, neno hiro kpwaandza na mu (muandishi, muaminifu n.k.) isiphokala maneno garigo na silabi mbiri bahi, mfwano ni (mwindza, mwivi).

5. Maneno ga kuigana na visitari

Maneno ganagoonyesa vihendo nkukala ganaandikpwa dza neno mwenga, mfwano ni sidzangbwesikira, wahendalapha, wakpwendasagala, wakpwedzamuamba na maneno ganjina dza gaga.

Maneno ga kuigana gaandikpwavyo: kahi-kahi, gadza-gadza, chimabu-mabu, kulunga-lunga, wasi-wasi lakini nomino ambazo tazina chiambishiawali, yani nafsi mbere, nkuandikpwa mwenga kpwa mwenga bila visitari, mfwano ni barabara, buibui, dungudungu na maneno ganjina dza higo.

Maneno ambago ganauyirwa-uyirwa mara tahu nkukala ganasomeka vinono gachiandikpwa na visitari, mfwano ni tse-tse-tse, pi-pi-pi, do-do-do na ganasomeka dza neno mwenga kuriko hivyo ganavyoandikpwa seemu tahu.

Mwisho, Adigo ana njira nyinji za kugomba dzulu ya kukala na kusakala, kpwa mfwano:

Kukala:	Hu atu anono Sisi ndio atu anono	Mu atu anono Mwimwi ndimwi atue anono
Kusakala:	Tahu atu a handzo Sisi sio atu a handzo Siswi atu a handzo	Tamu atu a handzo Mwimwi simwi atu a handzo Simwi atu a handzo

Sentesi zirizo na hu, tahu, mu, tamu n.k karibu zi sawa na vihendo (hunamanya, tahumanya n.k), ela ili gasirehe kuandika harufu kulu kahi-kahi ya maneno, mfwano “tamuAdigo” maneno higa nkuandikpwa tafauti, kpwa mfwano tamu Adigo. Piya nkuandikpwa dza vivyo kabla ya viunganisho (phamwenga, jizani n.k.) na kabla ya maneno ganagolavya sifwa (moho, tayari n.k.), mfwano: hu phamwenga, a jizani, ku moho, tamu tayari.

Digo — English — Swahili Dictionary

Appendix 1: The Digo people and language

The Digo are the second largest of nine coastal tribes known as the Mijikenda, and are concentrated in the coastal area and eastern slopes of the coastal hills from Mombasa, Kenya, south to Tanga, Tanzania ( $39^{\circ}$  longitude,  $4\text{--}6^{\circ}$  latitude). According to Digo oral tradition the Mijikenda migrated in the 16th and 17th centuries from a place called Shingwaya in present-day Somalia, under pressure from the Galla people. There are estimated to be about 360,000 Digos in Kenya and Tanzania. In Kenya, most Digos live in dispersed family homesteads surrounded by cultivated fields, whereas in Tanzania most live in close-knit villages following the Ujamaa village settlement process. The majority of Digos are subsistence farmers, growing maize, cassava, rice, beans, bananas and coconuts, and keeping chickens, goats, and occasionally sheep and cows. At the coast, a few are fishermen.

The Digo language is a Bantu language classified as E.73 (Guthrie 1967-71) or North-East Coast (Nurse 1999). Words in Bantu languages consist of a root plus various affixes, including a prefix used to indicate manner or way, including way of speaking. Thus, the Digo language is referred to as Chidigo, which can also function as an adjective, as in ngoma ya chidigo (a Digo dance). In other languages the form of this prefix differs, e.g. Kigiryama (the Giryama language or way) and Kiswahili (the Swahili language or way). In the dictionary, definitions and notes written in English use the term ‘Digo’ to refer to the Digo language or way, whilst definitions and notes written in Swahili use the term ‘Kidigo’.

Probably the closest language to Digo in terms of grammatical structure and pronunciation is Duruma, another Mijikenda language spoken west of the Kenyan Digo area (around Kinango). Digo and Duruma are similar to the other Mijikenda languages, of which the best known and largest (in terms of number of speakers and geographical area) is Giryama. The Mijikenda languages are also similar to Swahili, the National Language of both Kenya and Tanzania, but Digo has absorbed (or ‘borrowed’) more words of Swahili origin than the other Mijikenda languages. This is probably due to social factors. The Digo have traditionally been traders as well as farmers and (at the coast) fishermen, and for many years Digo traders provided Swahili and Arab merchants in Mombasa, Shimoni and elsewhere with slaves and ivory. Through these contacts, many Digos also became Muslims (a process that became especially marked at the beginning of the 20th century), with the result that currently 99.9% of Digos describe themselves as Muslim. Because of the value of Swahili for trade and also because of its associations with Islam, a great many Swahili words were adopted by Digo speakers and adapted to Digo patterns of grammar and pronunciation.

Appendix 2: Concise grammar of the Digo language

by Steve Nicolle

This sketch of the grammar of the Digo language is not intended to be complete. It focuses on words rather than on sentences, clauses or paragraphs, since dictionaries deal primarily with words rather than with longer units.

This concise grammar is divided very simply into three main sections dealing with nouns, verbs, and other parts of speech, reflecting the fact that nouns constitute approximately half of the dictionary entries, with the next most frequent part of speech being verbs.

Nouns

Digo nouns can be grouped into noun classes, each of which has a characteristic prefix. Each noun (with singular and plural forms being treated as distinct) belongs to a particular noun class, and all adjectives and verbs associated with a given noun show agreement with its noun class. Bantu noun classes have traditionally been numbered for ease of reference; noun classes 12, 13 and 19 do not occur in Digo but are found in some other Bantu languages. The noun classes and their prefixes are listed in Table 1.

	prefix	examples
1	mu/mw/m	mutu “person”/ mwana “child”/ mjeni “guest, stranger”
2	a	atu “people”/ ana “children”/ ajeni “guests, strangers”
1a	-	baba, sowe, ise “father”/ simba “lion”
2a	- (ano)	ano baba “fathers”/ simba “lions”
3	mu/mw/m	muhi “tree, wild plant”/ mwezi “moon, month”/ moyo “heart”
4	mi	mihi “trees, wild plants”/ miezi “moons, months”/ miyo “hearts”
5	dz/-	dzina “name”/ dziwe “stone”/ bofulo “bread roll”
6	ma	madzina “names”/ mawe “stones”/ makongo “illnesses”
7	chi/ch	chitsulu “anthill”/ chala “finger”
8	vi-vy	vitsulu “anthills”/ vyala “fingers”
9	N/-	nyumba “house”/ tsi “country”
10	N/-	nyumba “houses”/ mbiga “clay bowls”/ pazi “ladles”
11	li	liga “clay bowl”/ liphazi “ladle”/ lichigo “fence”
14	u	usiku “night”/ uchigo “fence”/ uchiya “poverty”/ ukongo “illness”
15	ku	kufwitsa “hiding, to hide” (infinitive)
16	pha	phahali, phatu “place”
17	ku	kpawahali “place” (ku+a = kpwa)
18	mu	mwahali “inside place” (mu+a = mwa)

Table 1: Noun classes

In Digo, as in other Bantu languages, one of the functions of noun classes is to indicate number (one or more). Although most noun classes can be grouped into singular/plural pairings, not all nouns conform to this system. Figure 1 shows the singular-plural noun class pairings. Noun classes whose members have no plural (such as class 15, verb infinitives) have been excluded.

As can be seen from Figure 1, it is not always possible to predict the plural form of a noun, and for this reason plurals are indicated in the dictionary by placing the plural prefix (or whole word in cases where the plural is irregular) in brackets following the singular form (see Notes on using the dictionary).

Notes on individual noun classes

- 1 / 2 These classes refer to animate entities, particularly humans.
- 1a/2a These classes contain kinship terms, names of certain animals, and manga ('cassava'). They take the same agreement markers as classes 1 and 2, but lack the nominal prefixes (m-/a-) of classes 1 and 2.
- 3 / 4 There is also one word in class 3/4 mtume/mitume ('prophet') which behaves like a noun of class 1a/2a in that it takes class 1/2 agreements.
- 5 / 6 These classes include some terms for humans when described by occupation or status (fundi 'craftsman'; nabii 'prophet'). In the singular (class 5) these nouns take class 1 agreements (fundi wa mbao 'carpenter'; fundi mmwenga 'one craftsman' etc.). However, in the plural they take class 6 agreements with the 'associative' -a (mafundi ga kudzenga 'builders') and possessives (mafundige 'his craftsmen') but class 2 agreements elsewhere (mafundi osi 'all the craftsmen'; Hinyo mafundi ariphosikira hivyo, atsukirwa sana 'When those craftsmen heard this, they became very angry').

Classes 5 and 6 are also used for augmentatives. There are two alternative noun class prefixes for augmentatives: dz- or dzidz- (e.g. nyoka ‘snake’ > dzoka or dzidzoka). Augmentatives differ from words that are inherently in class 5 where adjectival agreement is concerned: inherent dziwe kulu (‘a large stone’) vs. augmentative dzinyama dzikulu (‘a large animal’).

- 7 / 8 Classes 7 and 8 are also used for diminutives. There are two alternative noun class prefixes for diminutives: chi- or chidzi-. The chi- prefix occurs with nouns which belong intrinsically to some other noun class and whose stems have two or more syllables (e.g. gogo ‘log’ > chigogo ‘small log’). The chidzi- prefix is used with nouns which belong intrinsically to class 7/8 (e.g. chitambo ‘a while/long time ago’ > chidzitambo ‘a little while ago’; chitabu ‘book’ > chidzitabu ‘booklet’) and nouns with monosyllabic stems (mudzi ‘town’ > chidzidzi ‘village’; muhi ‘tree, wild plant’ > chidzihī ‘small tree, shrub’).
- 9 / 10 The usual class for plurals of class 9 is class 10 (siku mwenga ‘one day’; siku mbiri ‘two days’) but plurals can also be made in class 6 where the emphasis is on quantity rather than individuation (masiku ‘many days’).
- 11/14 Most nouns in class 11 take a class 10 plural: liga (‘clay bowl’) > mbiga; linyasi (‘grass’) > nyasi; lifusi (species of grass) > fusi; ling'ongo (length of cord or fibre) > ng'ongo. When the noun root begins with ph (a voiced bilabial fricative) as in liphazi (‘ladle’) and the plural form is in class 10, the root of the plural usually begins with p: pazi (‘ladles’). However, there are exceptions, e.g. liphyero (‘broom’) which has two plural forms: pyero and phyero.
Other words in class 11 take class 6 plurals in which the li- prefix is either retained or omitted: liphungo (‘twig, cutting’) > maphungo. A few words, e.g. liphazi (‘ladle’) have attested plural forms in both classes: maliphazi (class 6) or pazi (class 10). (Note that the class 11 agreements are identical to those of class 5.)
Some words in class 11 take alternate class 14 prefixes (lichigo vs. uchigo ‘fence’), perhaps under the influence of Swahili in which these two classes have collapsed into one.

Nominalising strategies (ways to create nouns)

The infinitive form of a verb exhibits many of the characteristics of a noun, and for that reason the infinitive prefix (ku-) is simultaneously characterised as the prefix for noun class 15. In addition, nouns of other noun classes can be formed from verbs (a process known as nominalisation). The most common and productive nominalisation processes involve the addition of prefixes and suffixes to verb stems and are summarised in table 2.

noun class	prefix	suffix	example	source (verb)
1 / 2	m(u) / a	-a	mrisa ('herdsman')	risa ('to feed, to take to graze')
1 / 2	m(u) / a	-i	muiki ('keeper')	ika ('to keep, to place')
1 / 2	m(u) / a	-adzi	msemuriradzi ('narator')	semurira ('to narrate')
1 / 2	mwana	-i	mwanafundzi ('student')	fundza ('to teach')
1a / 2a	/ana
3 / 4	chi / vi	-i	chimanyi ('expert')	manyia ('to know')
	m(u) / mi	-o	muhego ('trap')	hega ('to trap')
5 / 6	Ø / ma	-o	fundzo ('teaching')	fundza ('to teach') sikiro ('ear')	sikira ('to hear')
6	ma	-a	makosa ('fault, error')	kosa ('to fail, wrong s.o.')
6	ma	-o	makosano ('misunderstanding')	kosana ('to disagree')
7 / 8	chi / vi	-e	chiumbe ('creature')	umba ('to create')
7 / 8	chi / vi	-o	chitseko ('laughter')	tseka ('to laugh')
9 / 10	N / N	-o	ngurumo ('a roar')	nguruma ('to roar')
11	li	-o	liphyero ('broom')	phyera ('to sweep')
14	u (w-)	-a	windza ('hunting')	indza ('to hunt')
14	u	-i	ushindi ('victory')	shinda ('to defeat, to win')

Table 2: Nouns from verbs

Some nominalisation processes exhibit the phonological effect of ‘spirantization’ in which /d/ becomes /dz/ and /h/ or /l/ becomes /z/:

- rinda* > mrindzi ('guard')
- shuha* > ushuzi ('fart')
- lóla* ('marry') > ulozi ('marriage negotiation')

Nouns can be formed from adjectives using the class 14 prefix:

- unono* ('goodness') < -nono ('good')
- uphya* ('newness') < -phyia ('new')
- usawa* ('equality') < sawa ('same')

The prefix chi- is used to indicate manner in adverbials, e.g. Wagomba chilume 'He spoke boldly'. In certain words, this chi- prefix has been re-analyzed as the class 7 prefix with the result that the entire form is nominalised, e.g. Chilumeche rero chikamanyikana ('His bravery has become known today').

With the exception of augmentatives and diminutives, it is often not possible to be certain which is the source noun and which is the derived noun in cases of noun to noun derivation. The following are some of the regular noun to noun correspondences in Digo:

country	nationality/tribe	language/culture:
Digo (proper noun)	Mdigo (cl. 1 / 2 )	Chidigo (cl. 7)
Ujerumani (cl. 14 )	Mjerumani (cl. 1 / 2 )	Chijerumani (cl. 7) (German)
plant name	fruit
m'balazi (cl. 3 / 4 )	balazi (cl. 9 / 10 )	pigeon pea
mwembe (cl. 3 / 4 )	embe (cl. 5 / 6 )	mango occupation	quality
mrindzi (cl. 1 / 2 )	urindzi (cl. 14 )	guard/protection
mganga (cl. 1 / 2 )	uganga (cl. 14 )	traditional healer/medicine

There are also three kinds of compound noun which describe an agent (the doer of an action) involved in an activity involving a particular patient (the thing acted upon). In the first construction the derived noun is formed with the suffix -adzi and the spelling convention is to hyphenate the two nouns: mhendadzi-kazi ('worker'). In the second construction, the suffix on the derived noun is the regular final vowel -a, and the spelling convention is to write the two nouns as separate words: mtema kuni ('woodcutter'). Some plant names which describe a property of the plant have a similar structure: chivuma nyuchi (Agathisanthemum bojeri). In the final construction, the suffix on the derived noun is -i and the patient noun is part of a prepositional phrase headed by wa ('of'): mhegi wa mihambo ('trapper', lit. 'setter of traps').

Another kind of noun compounding derives the names of young animals by prefixing mwana- ('child') to the name of the animal. The spelling convention is to hyphenate such compounds: mwana-ng'ondzi ('lamb'). In the plural the prefix is ana- and the name of the animal remains in the singular form: ana-diya ('puppies', n.b. plural 'dogs' is madiya). The prefix mwana is also found in some nouns referring to people, e.g. mwanachiya ('orphan'), mwanadamu ('person'), mwanafundzi ('student'), mwanamadzi (assistant to a traditional healer) in which a hyphen is not used. Many of these forms may have been borrowed from Swahili and they are not productive.

Verbs

In Digo, entire sentences can be constructed from a single verb stem plus various prefixes (placed before the verb) and suffixes (placed after the verb). These are listed in table 3 below. The verb stem consists of the root plus any extensions, and the stem plus all the prefixes and suffixes is called the verbal complex.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Initial	Subject	Tense/Aspect/ Movement	Object	ROOT	Extensions	Final	Post final
P r e f i x e s				S T E M		S u f f i x e s

Table 3: The Digo verbal complex

The following examples illustrate the structure of the verbal complex:

tagarika ‘they are not edible’ wamuambira ‘he told him’ niphiyako ‘where I am going’ Unaonadze? ‘What do you think?’	1 2 5 6 7 ta-ga-ri-k-a neg-scd6-eat-stative-final
	2 3 4 5 6 7 w-a-mu-amb-ir-a 3s-past-3s-say-appl.-final
	2 5 7 8 ni-phiy-a-ko 1s-go-final-relative
	2 3 5 7 8 u-na-on-a-dze 2s-pres-see-final-question

We shall very briefly consider each ‘slot’ in turn.

1      Initial

This slot includes negative, infinitive and ‘emphatic’ prefixes (the latter used only in the subjunctive mood).

2      Subject

The noun class agreement prefixes for verbs occur here as well as the person markers.

Person markers: 1s ni/n, 1p hu, 2s u, 2p mu/m, 3s a/w (= class 1), 3p a (= class 2).

Noun class agreement prefixes: 3 u, 4 i, 5 ri, 6 ga, 7 chi, 8 vi, 9 i, 10 zi, 11 ri, 14 u, 15 ku, 16 pha, 17 ku, 18 m.

3 Tense/aspect/movement

19 tense/aspect/movement markers occur in the slot, along with 5 auxiliary verbs which function in much the same way. Relative pronouns occur immediately after the tense marker in tensed relative clauses.

4 Object

The noun class agreement prefixes for verbs occur here (same as for subject agreement) as well as the person markers (which differ from the subject person markers): 1s ni, 1p hu/w, 2s ku, 2p ku (+ ni in post-final slot 8), 3s m/mu, 3p a, reflexive dzi. The prefixes which occur in this slot need not refer to grammatical objects (although this is the most common function they have) but can also refer to other incorporated arguments, such as locations and instruments. Unlike in some other Bantu languages, only one prefix may occur in the object slot in Digo.

5 Root

The core of the verbal complex is the verb root, and it is the root (and occasionally the stem, i.e. root plus one or more extension) which is listed in the dictionary. The verb stem is the vowel harmony domain: extensions beginning with either e- or i- select one or the other vowel on the basis of the final vowel of the verb root. This is also true of the general past negative marker ire/ere which occurs in the final slot. Verb roots ending in a, i, or u are followed by i: wajita ('s/he cooked') > kajitire ('s/he did not cook'), and verb roots ending in e or o are followed by e: wasoma (s/he read) > kasomere (s/he did not read).

6 Extensions

More than one extension can occur in a single stem. There are 8 extensions in Digo, of which 5 are productive; these are listed below in Table 4:

stative (neuter)	mwag-ik-a on-ek-a	be spilt be visible/be seen causative	tayar-ish-a uy-iz-a og-esh-a el-ez-a pho-z-a	prepare (cause to be ready) return (transitive) wash (transitive) explain (cause to understand) heal (trans.) from phola 'get well' applicative (prepositional)	jit-ir-a gomb-er-a	cook for (someone)/ at (place)/ with (instrument) rebuke (speak at/against someone)
reciprocal	gbwir-an-a	join together (intransitive)
passive	gbwir-w-a	be held

Table 4: Productive extensions in Digo

The form of the causative is either ish/esh (occasionally is/es) or iz/ez (the initial vowel being determined by vowel harmony rules). The sh form of the causative extension is non-productive, occurring primarily in verbs for which the root form is either unknown or is of Swahili origin. In many cases, Digo has borrowed Swahili causative verb forms without having borrowed the corresponding verb root in isolation. Conversely, the z form of the causative is productive, occurring when there is a recognisable root form which corresponds to a verb in current usage in Digo.

7      Final

Morphemes which may occur in this slot include: a neutral suffix (final vowel), e subjunctive suffix, and ire/-ere ‘perfect’ marker which occurs in negative clauses with no tense marker, and to indicate the resultant state of the verbs lala ‘sleep’ and sagala ‘sit’ (arere ‘s/he is asleep’, asegere ‘s/he is seated’).

8      Post final

The post-final slot contains the following elements: ni (plural), (tenseless) relative markers, wh-question markers dze ('how'), ni ('what'), phi ('where'), and the clitic to ('well').

Other parts of speech

Qualificatives

Qualificatives are words or expressions which provide more information about noun phrases. Qualificatives follow the noun which they modify and can sometimes stand alone (without an accompanying noun) in which case they function like pronouns. The usual order of qualificatives following a noun is:

quantifier/possessive > numeral > lexical adjective > phrasal adjective

For example:

ng'ombe zanjina sabaa za kunona      ‘seven other fat cows’ cows      others      seven      of      being fat

punga sabaa nyembamba za kunyala      ‘seven thin withered ears (of corn)’ ears      seven      thin      of      being withered

Qualificatives in Digo can be divided into 2 main types on the basis of their noun class concords. Lexical adjectives (including numerals) and -nji ('many') take the same prefixes as nouns, whereas associative -a, possessives, relative markers, and the quantifiers -osi 'all' and -anjina 'some', '(an)other' take the same concords as the subject and object markers on verbs. (Classes 1 and 2 are somewhat irregular in this respect.) The concord sets are summarised in table 5.

	Adjective / “many”		assoc. ‘of’	Possessive ‘my’	which	Rel. ‘all’ ‘any’	‘some’/ ‘other’ ‘self’
	#-C ‘good’	#-V ‘white’ ‘red’
1	mzuri mmono	mwiru mwembamba	wa	wangu	yuphi	ye yesi	wanjina mwenye
2	azuri anono	aru, anji embamba	a	angu	aphi	o osi	anjina enye
3	mzuri mmono	mwiru mwembamba	wa	wangu	uphi	wo wosi	wanjina wenye
4	mizuri minono	miru, minji miembamba	ya	yangu	iphi	yo yosi	yanjina yenye
5	zuri nono	dziru dzembamba	ra	rangu	riphi	ro rosi	ranjina renye
6	mazuri manono	maru, manji membamba	ga	gangu	gaphi	go gosi	ganjina genye
7	chizuri chinono	chiru chembamba	cha	changu	chiphi	cho chosi	chanjina chenye

Table 5: Qualificatives and their noun class agreements

Adjectives

In addition to lexical adjectives which agree with the noun being modified, Digo also has invariable lexical adjectives and phrasal adjectives. These three types of adjective are exemplified below in turn.

Chitabu chizaho chi dzulu ya meza ndzaho. ‘The heavy book is on the heavy table.’

Chitabu rahisi chi dzulu ya meza rahisi. ‘The cheap book is on the cheap table’

Chitabu cha kare chi dzulu ya meza ya kare. ‘The old book is on the old table.’

In the dictionary, lexical adjectives which agree with the noun being modified are written with a preceding hyphen (dash): -zaho, and phrasal adjectives are written with the associative a following the head word: kare, -a.

Numerals

The cardinal numbers 1-10 are listed below. Forms in brackets are the forms used in isolation where these differ from the form with noun class agreement.

1	-mwenga	2	-iri (mbiri)
3	-hahu (tahu )	4	-ne (nne)
5	-tsano	6	sita
7	sabaa	8	nane
9	tisiya	10	kumi

The words for 100 (mia and gana), 1,000 (elufu and chikwi), and 100,000 (laki) function simultaneously as qualificatives and nouns. They can modify nouns but can also be modified by other numerals: mia mwenga, mia mbiri, gana mwenga, magana mairi, elufu mwenga, elufu mbiri, laki mwenga, laki mbiri.

One of the terms for 10 (mrongo) also functions in this way, and the numerals 20, 30, etc. can be made using mirongo, the plural of mrongo: Ana nyumba mirongo miiri. (‘He has twenty houses.’) Invariable forms borrowed from Swahili, e.g. ishirini (20), salasini (30), are more commonly used however.

Ordinal numbers function like phrasal adjectives: siku ya kpwandza (‘the first day’), mwezi wa phiri (‘the second month’), mara ya hahu (‘the third time’), etc. The ordinal numbers from 4 to 10 are the same as the cardinal numbers preceded by the associative a.

Possessives

Adnominal possessives (following a head noun) and pronominal possessives (self-standing) have the same form, except for the monosyllabic 2nd and 3rd person singular adnominal possessives which are suffixed to the noun. All of the other forms occur as separate words (with a noun class prefix) except where -angu modifies a kinship term: akazangu (‘my wives’), muwangu (‘my niece’).

1s ‘my, mine’	-angu	1p ‘our, ours’	-ehu
2s ‘your, yours’	-o, -ako	2p ‘your, yours’	-enu
3s ‘his, her, its’	-e, -akpwe	3p ‘their, theirs’	-ao

Adverbs

An adverb describes how an action is performed, or the degree or extent of an action or of a qualitative (degree adverbs). Many adverbs are derived from nouns or prepositions prefixed with chi- to express manner, and many involve reduplication of a segment. Adverbs follow verbs, with the exception of words expressing degrees of certainty, e.g. hakika ('certainly'), chahi ('maybe'). Degree adverbs follow adjectives etc.

Atu osi achijibu chilimwenga. 'All the people answered together.'

Twiga ni nyama mrefu hasa vuweni. 'The giraffe is the tallest wild animal.'

Prepositions and Conjunctions

Prepositions can occur alone or before noun phrases. When they occur before noun phrases they are often followed by some form of the associative -a, usually ya (class 9) or za (class 10): dzulu ya meza ('on the table'); mbere za nyumba ('in front of the house').

Conjunctions may join phrases, clauses, sentences or larger units of text. In general, they occur before one of the conjoined constituents, but there are exceptions.

Pronouns and demonstratives

In addition to subject and object prefixes, Digo has independent personal pronouns which are typically used for emphasis.

1s	mimi, mino	1p	sisi, swiswi, sino (hosí 'we all, us all')
2s	uwe	2p	mwimwi, mwino (mosí 'you all')
3s	iye	3p	aho

The final syllable of the 1st and 2nd person independent pronouns can also occur as a suffix in copular constructions: ndimi ('it is me'), siswi ('we are not'), etc. and following na ('with') to create 'parallel focus' constructions nami, nasi, etc. which can usually be glossed 'also' (see Nicolle 2002b). The 3rd person suffixes in these constructions are -ye (singular) and -o (plural) which are identical with the class 1 and 2 relative markers.

Digo also has various demonstrative forms. Each noun class has at least five demonstratives, most of which can stand alone, before a noun phrase (dem+NP) and after a noun phrase (NP+dem). The various forms of demonstrative refer to things near to the speaker and/or hearer, distant from hearer and/or speaker, recently mentioned, or specific. For example, noun class 6 has the following demonstrative forms, listed in order of frequency, most common first (English glosses are only approximate): higa ('these'), higo ('these/those previously referred to'), gara ('those'), gano ('these', almost always used in information questions), gago ('those, those same, such'), garatu ('those very same'). All of these demonstrative forms can occur alone, preceding a NP, or following a NP, but whereas higa usually follows a NP, gara almost always precedes a NP and on the rare occasions when it follows a NP this is often in the construction 'NP garatu gara'.
